

On Royalties and Publishing Costs for Books published by Indic Pacific Legal Research under VLiGTA® and otherwise

The Royalties we offer and the publishing costs we incur are based on the categories of books we publish, both digitally and physically.

The categories are mentioned at indicpacific.com/publishing.

According to the website, we publish the following book categories:

Books

Monographs, or general works of research or opinion in the fields of law and policy.

Collections of Research Works

Collections of research papers, reports and commentaries in the fields of law and policy.

Technical Reports

Reports covering essential research questions and issues of importance, in the fields of law and policy.

Handbooks

Handbooks, which cover integral concepts and phenomena in the fields of law and policy.

For Books, which are non-fiction, we offer royalties on the basis of regular pay-outs.

However, for collections of research works, technical reports and handbooks, we do not offer any royalties to the contributors since the cost of publication, indexing, marketing, proof-reading, proof-editing, graphics editing, design, shipping and technology are borne by us. Thus, for these categories, we either do not charge any amount for the purpose of publication, either on an invite-basis, or in general, which depends upon the book proposals or call for contributions we endorse/release. This could also be subject to partnerships, like the one we have in the case of the Indian Society of Artificial Intelligence and Law.
